Unsettled Issues

It is wrong to give in to the eager persuasion of those who want to believe that all the issues of the national campaign were settled at the polls. They weren't.

Mr. Roosevelt and his party did not seek reelection on the claim that their handling of national finance has been so sound that no change of policy is desirable or imperative.

They did not defend their record of bureaucratic wool-gathering at the expense of national efficiency before and during the war; they did not defend their easy compliance with the credo of ever-growing bureaucracy.

They did not campaign on the issue of the federal government's wisdom in bestowing unusual favors to some blocs of citizens and withholding favors from other less potent blocs.

They did not argue the issue of the indispensable man, though it had become the most troublesome single issue inside the party.

They discussed as little as possible the questions of onerous taxation which have been made pressing by the common determination of both parties to furnish full employment during and after demobilization.

On the whole, the campaign and the election settled nothing, except the wartime issue over changing the control of the federal government in wartime. They did not even settle the issue of international policy, unless we are so naive as to believe that it can be settled by good resolutions.

It does not signify an attitude of irreconcilability to insist on correct solutions to problems of extreme importance. It does signify that within the framework of representative democracy there shall be continuous determination to work for the national welfare. The problems which have been raised and left unsettled in the United States since 1929 are vastly more important than any of those which have been disposed of so far.

To declare, under the circumstances, that the election confirmed all the policies of the party in power is to reveal such ignorance of the processes of democracy that it only betrays an attitude of disbelief in democracy, itself.

Using the Right Names

The financial complications of the international arrangement known as lend-lease are beyond popular understanding; the people must take on faith the multi-ciphered sums they are informed about from time to time.

They are content to know that lend-lease seems to be a mutually satisfactory way of making available to the United Nations the resources of the United States and, in turn, to the United States some of the resources of the United Nations. It is an affirmed and accepted public policy.

But, looking ahead, many Americans are beginning to see the terms of a wave of recrimination growing out of the misconception of lend-lease chargeable to the misuse of the two words in its hyphenated title. Each has a clear connotation in the American mind. To lend is to grant something to another for temporary use; to lease is to grant the use of property for a definite consideration.

It becomes more plainly evident with passage of time that the lending function under lend-lease is only remotely related to the popular understanding of lending and that the leasing function, as exercised in the international sphere, is subject to such widely varying interpretations of what constitutes a definite—and equitable—consideration that the popular title of lend-lease is a misnomer. Much of the lending, it now appears, was really giving, and much of the leasing was swapping.

One of the chief problems of the next four years is going to be the difficulty of adjusting the public mind to the disparity between the reality and the misconception of what was done under "lend-lease" authority.

It Could Happen Here

Every civilian in the United States needs to be prepared for the possibility that Germany may be able to do what it obviously will do if it can—inflit damage on the Atlantic coast, either with jet-propelled bombs or rockets.

The danger inherent in the German threat, if it can be carried out, is not the physical damage the explosives could do if launched successfully from submarines; it would be no more than a token raid at best. The real danger is the excitement and panic that would ensue if the nation were not on guard. In fact, from the German point of view, that could be the only reason for undertaking an operation so hazardous and experimental that even to think about it taxes credulity.

The damage that might be done by scattered attacks on coastal targets, if the German submarines got through the blockade successfully, would be negligible in comparison with the damage to civilian morale and war production throughout the country.

It could happen here. The fact should be accepted, so if it does happen there will be a minimum of panic and excitement. The United States is at war with ruthless and ingenious enemies. It should be mentally prepared for the worst they may be able to do to vent their wrath on the nation that frustrated their ambitions.

One Book Yet to Come

News that the Academy of Architecture of Soviet Russia is studying books on community planning and housing in the United States raises a doubt. Hadn't the Russians better wait for the post-war book that will tell about the mistakes made here?

One of the mistakes has been painfully obvious—the disparity between the theory of housing and the habits of housing's intended beneficiaries. In some cases, huge projects have been undertaken with so little regard to the realities of occupancy that they fulfilled no purpose, other than the employment of labor and materials. In contrast with government's mistakes in this regard has been the consistently better experience of private interests which, guarded by the necessity of making ends meet, have produced some of the most important housing projects ever conceived.

Perhaps the Russians should check their textbooks against experience. If the housing projects were occupied and if they continued to be occupied, they are worth copying. If they weren't occupied, that must be put down as a cost item under trial, error and bureaucratic government with more money than sense.

The Stars Say

For Wednesday, November 22.

ALTHOUGH this is read to be a lively and exciting day, there are also indications that the young, their pastimes and affiliations may be of a rather involved, difficult and threatening nature. There may be temptations to excess, extravagances and indulgences with strong antagonism from elders or feminine relations, with much wrangling and discontent. However, with an amiable and reasonable attitude there should be opening for decided benefits and promised happiness. Keep patient and poised.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a lively and progressive year, with many curious or singular experiences, of an intriguing, mysterious or idealistic nature, beneficial and pleasant if poise and reason and not feelings and emotions be maintained, especially where elders or women are concerned. Placate these and use the intuitions for exceptional gains.

A child born on this day should be blessed with exceptional talents and skills and should shine in cultural, intellectual or artistic expression.

Brooklyn and Mr. Coward

By James Thrasher

In his new book, "Middle East Diary," Noel Coward made a somewhat sneering remark about Brooklyn soldiers. The reaction could have been foretold, for it is well known that the hellish fury of a woman scorned is as nothing compared with the rage of a native Brooklynite whose civic pride has been wounded.

We can't say that we blame the Brooklynites, having read the inflammatory passage in which Mr. Coward writes that, having talked with some "tough men from Texas and Arizona" in a hospital, he was "less impressed by some of the mournful little Brooklyn boys lying there in tears amidst the alien corn with nothing worse than a bullet wound in the leg or a fractured arm."

It is a great pity, of course, that the "little Brooklyn boys" with their little wounds should have annoyed Mr. Coward. It would have been so much more effective, dramatically, to have had those arms and eyes shot clean away.

And yet Mr. Coward might have reflected that little boys from Brooklyn (even though they aren't acceptable in his social circles) have had some part in preserving the British Empire, for which Mr. Coward is the most successful literary drum-beater since Kipling.

Thanks partly to them, Mr. Coward may continue his career with an Empire backdrop, still being very clever, very proper, very British—and very safe—so long as he keeps out of Brooklyn.

There's no secret about the prettiest flower of this season though mum's the word.

Men are known by the company they keep—women by the clothes they keep on wearing.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

That Stomach Ulcer

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
I AM MUCH impressed by what a doctor of my acquaintance tells his patients. In trying to impress on them the necessity for accurate compliance with his instructions.

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

for the treatment of ulcer of the stomach or duodenum he says—"I wish you could follow just one case with me. There would be no further need to urge you to follow my instructions. You would not only be willing, but anxious to comply with the regulations."

This is true not only for ulcer patients, but for a number of chronic conditions, such as the treatment of diabetes and heart disease, and tuberculosis. The doctor's rules often appear harsh and unrelenting. He does not seem to allow for what the general confession calls the impulse to follow "the devices and desires of our own hearts." He apparently doesn't want us to have much fun.

But the general confession goes on to suggest that for those who do follow the devices and desires "there is no health in them." And, as my doctor friend suggests, just one concrete example to prove that conscientious and rigorous following of instructions does produce good results would be far convincing than an hour's long sermon.

Peptic Ulcer Treatment

There is no better example of the success of regard for medical treatment than that used in peptic ulcer. It is a condition that in at least 85 per cent of cases responds beautifully to a careful following out of medication and diet. But the

Wounded Salem Vet In English Hospital

Wounded in the right leg by shrapnel at Rubyville, France, in the Meuse river sector, Pvt. Dale L. Anderson, 25, of 315 W. Pershing ave., is convalescing in a U. S. Army general hospital in England.

"His condition is excellent and he will return to duty in a few weeks," according to his ward surgeon, First Lieut. Willis E. Hammond of New Berlin, N. Y.

Anderson, who was in an armored infantry unit, said his squad was sent into the village of Rubyville as reconnaissance patrol.

"The Germans had guns set up on the other side of the town and started shelling us as soon as we hit the outskirts," he explained. "We just started to withdraw when a shell landed a few yards from me."

Anderson was treated at several field medical units, then evacuated to the hospital in England by air.

The Salem soldier is the husband of Mrs. Mary Jane Anderson of Pershing ave. Before entering the Army last November he worked at the Goodyear aircraft plant in Akron.

No Cigaret Supply For Soldiers In Rear Areas

PARIS, Nov. 21—Soldiers and officers in Paris and many other rear areas were told today they could get no cigarettes, although the black market has them at $4 per pack.

Combat troops at the front recently were on short supply, but now they have plenty.

A large amount of army cigarettes has been diverted by one means or another, into the black market. Vendors peddled American cigarettes at $150 a pack two weeks ago to war-weary Parisians. Now since they have boosted the price to $4, they still are getting more offers than they can fill.

Officers in the Paris and rear areas were put on reduced cigarette rations last week and enlisted men got none. The scarcity here is linked to supply and transport problems connected with the offensive. They expected troops in the rear area to get cigarettes next week.

The thick granite crust that surrounds the earth is entirely absent beneath the Pacific ocean.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

OLD IDEAS REVIVED

Editor, The News:

It is to be regretted that more than 45,000,000 voters went to the polls on Nov. 7 and threw their votes away.

Having gone as it did, the election settled one question, and one question only. It determined which of the two major party candidates was going to have an opportunity to fail in making good his party's promises for peace and full employment. That, and nothing more.

The Socialist Labor party and its candidates posed this question, among others, during the campaign: Capitalism could not sell the surplus commodities before the war began. How can they hope to sell the surplus commodities which labor will be able to produce in even greater quantities after the war ends? The question has not been answered by the major party candidates. The Socialist Labor party, in posing the challenging question, hastens to offer its solution:

Abolish capitalist private ownership of industry, establish social ownership of industry under democratic management of workers; abolish production for sale and private profit, institute production for use on the principle that each worker will receive the full social value of his labor; abolish the capitalist political state, institute an industrial union government, with representatives elected from the nation's industries.

Call it fanaticism; call it dogmatism; call it what you like—it's this or recurring unemployment and wars.

You Gotta Think Quick

By STANLEY PALEY Copyright, 1944, NEA Service, Inc.

XXXIII
The moment I came in Mickey her arms around me an held tightly as if she was never going to go. I closed my eyes and my cheek against hers. For while we didn't say anything, and she broke the silence.
"Something really had happened,
hadn't it?"
"Yes."
"You don't have to tell me about it unless you want to."
"No, Mickey. I'll soon be telling you."
"Had anything to eat?"
"No."
"I'll get you something?"
"No, thanks."
We went into the living room and suddenly she started spinning around me. She steadied me and said to me: "You must have something, Leo.
You must have something. Leo,
you must have something."
"I don't."
"All I wanted was for her to continue holding me. Some deep instinct must have told her that I made me lie down and then she was in her arms as if I were dying. Soon the spinning began subsiding but I was still trembling and she gently stroked my head.
My Leo.
There was such tenderness in her face that I almost burst. I didn't want her to see my face right then.
I turned to bury it against her chest. Here was warmth and protection, and after a while a sort of peace came over me.
Later I told her what had happened. I tried to play it down, but the same it gave her a terrific shock. Not only was she concerned for me but she was also angry for Don.
Her getting entirely out of and we quarrel all the time and even talking about moving away from here." She shook her head unhappily.
That was a complication I'd almost forgotten. God, what a mess!
"Look, Mickey," I said. "The guile with him is that he doesn't realize what kind of a man he is."
For several minutes we both were in gloomy silence, and then Mickey spoke.
"I've been wondering about something. Leo. What you wanted to do was back out, run away . . ."
"Yes."
"It didn't work. You're so deeply changed that Boggio won't let you go."
"Right."
"His ruthless. Tonight he's said he won't stop at anything."
I looked at her.
"What are you driving at?"
"Just this: Has it occurred to you that in all these years there's nothing you never tried?"
"And what is it?"

Dorothy Hinckley To Become Bride Of Capt. Robert Barton

In an open church military wedding in the Methodist church at 8 p. m. Wednesday, Miss Dorothy Hinckley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hinckley, will become the bride of Capt. Robert Barton, commander of the Salvation Army chapter here.

AIR FLEET HITS NAZI REFINERIES

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Nov. 21.—A record fleet of more than 1,100 American fighter bombers destroyed at least 52 German planes today while the 1,250 heavy bombers were escorting plunged 4,000 tons of explosives onto three zealously guarded synthetic oil plants.

An Eighth Air Force spokesman said the score of the swirling battles over Hamburg and Merseburg might approach the 208 destroyed on Nov. 2. Then, as today, the Germans came up to defend the huge Leuna synthetic refinery at Merseburg, 100 miles southwest of Berlin.

The mighty fleet was well guarded today and it struck in fine weather even as Gen. Eisenhower promised Germany a winter of remorseless bombardment from the air.

The 1,100 fighter craft made up the most powerful escort ever dispatched with the bombers and most flew from British bases, the Eighth Air Force announcement said.

Brighten Holiday Table

The dinner table is the all important spot on Thanksgiving day even though it is not the real purpose of this festive occasion. The women folk will spend many extra dollars to make the Thanksgiving dinner a real success, few days in fact will they actually work as hard even though they do enjoy it and about all that will help is the children can do that will help is keep out of the way as far as the meal preparation is concerned but they can please all concerned by remembering to place orders for the centerpiece which certainly is the hope of all mothers.

beautiful floral display and there is no place where you could hope to find a greater assortment of cut or potted plants than at Endres & Gross.

Here, too, you can have the flowers arranged by experienced craftsmen, who know how to display blooms of any variety to their fullest advantage.

Right Lubricants Keep Cars In Running Order

A few dollars spent now to have your car completely lubricated is certain to pay big dividends in several ways with freezing weather almost here.

Batteries take real punishment during winter months because it requires more power to turn the motor over fast enough for it to start, the days are so much shorter the lights are used more and heaters are turned on.

If your car is properly lubricated the crank case oil changed to the proper grade and the grease in the differential and transmission changed to a lighter grade and the battery will not have the strain placed on it every time you press on the starter.

Pete Wiggers has often made the statement that few cars would ever wear out if they were kept properly lubricated. His experience operating two Super Service stations on Ellsworth ave. certainly places him in a position to know.

Check Alignment of Your Car At Klein's Garage

Any car that has developed a shimmy or weaves and wanders as you drive is a dangerous car to drive under any conditions, and especially so when the pavement is wet or covered with ice.

Usually one or more bearings have become worn until there is much more play than there should be or at the least the bearing needs tightening.

This type of trouble is spoken of as bad alignment and it is this kind of work that Matt Klein specializes in at his garage at 813 Newgarden st. when he has two complete units of the Bear System Alignment equipment.

ELECTRIC SUPPLY STORE WILL OPEN

A complete line of toys and gifts will be offered the public when the Columbian Electric Supply store, 586 E. State st., marks its formal opening tomorrow.

With plans for a complete electric appliance stock, including refrigerators, radios, washing machines, ranges, ironers, farm freezers and milk coolers, after the war, Ward K. Keiffer, owner of the new establishment, says the toy line now of record is the most complete to be found in this district.

A radio department staffed by two experienced repair men, will be in operation at the store shortly after Christmas, Keiffer said. Radios will be repaired, all parts stocked, and delivery made to and from Salem homes.

The present gift line, which includes chinaware, novelties and numerous household accessories, will be carried as a permanent line, the owner says, and the back part of the store will be turned over to the electrical appliances as soon as they are available.

Handling an exclusive stock of Norge and Zenith electrical products, Keiffer has plans to immediately begin order-taking for the various appliances so seriously needed by war-shattered households. The present plan calls for a customer numbering system, which will allocate each type of appliance to the consumers in the order they place their requests.

Factory representatives of the two concerns have assured the owner of some stock in all lines early in 1945.

Army First, Navy Second In Associated Press Grid Vote

Ohio State's Bucks Rank Third In Tally Of Nation's Sports Scribes This Week

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Army and Navy—the teams that met in Baltimore on Dec. 2 in the football game of the decade—rate No. 1 and 2 in today's Associated Press poll to determine the country's outstanding eleven.

The Cadets, who conquered Pennsylvania by a 62 to 7 score last Saturday, hung onto first place in the opinions of the 98 voting scribes, but the remainder of the top ten underwent a shakeup that ousted Duke despite its 34 to 7 triumph over South Carolina, and elevated Southern California.

Navy, 32 to 0 winner over Purdue, climbed to second place from third a week ago. Ohio State retained third but Randolph Field, which romped to a 58 to 0 verdict over Southwestern of Texas, skidded from the runner-up berth to fourth.

The Flyers were followed by Bainbridge Naval, Michigan, Iowa Pre-Flight, Southern California, Fourth Air Force of March field and Georgia Tech.

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Man the dikes, folks, the flood is coming. Lt. Comdr. Rip Miller and Maj. Andy Gustafson started it yesterday trying to build up each other's teams for the coming Army-Navy game and with two weeks to go they'll have plenty of time for crying. A couple of samples—Gustafson: "We'll continue to use the two-team system. We'll have to. No one team could stand up against Navy." Miller: "Did George Munger wear that football suit during the Army-Penn game? I wouldn't dare do that. It wouldn't be safe the way those Cadets block." Murray Dickson and Howard Krim, former Cardinal hurlers, met recently in a foxhole somewhere in France. And those weren't base hits whistling overhead, either.

CONTENTS NOTED
F.C. Bob Rinehart, a former Ohio Stater on lend lease to Camp Claiborne, La., asks who said that Ohio State didn't have transfer help. "How," Bob asks, "about all those shavelines? Must have been transferred from those Ohio High schools to the Buckeye varsity?"

SHORTS AND SHELLS
The New York boxing managers guild has called a boycott against Joe Turner, Washington promoter, because of Eddie Walker's suspension. They claim Eddie has tried to get a new date from Turner for that postponed Chalky Wright fight and can't get a tumble. Paul Robinson, Jr. whose points beat Dartmouth Saturday, started the game for Cornell only because Navy Trainee Edward Sharafanovich was caught wearing white socks that morning and was confined to quarters for the week-end. Must have been an American league umpire who dished out that punishment.

ing for his services. His pilots are hopeful of steering the promising young fighter into a chance at the welterweight title.

Undeclared in his last 28 fights, of which he won 18 by knockouts, Bell has been inactive since June 26. On that date he outpointed Fritz Zivic at Pittsburgh. A unique feature of his record is that he scored three knockouts within five nights—Feb. 14, Ernie Delaia in the fourth; Feb. 15, Chuck Hunter in the second, and Feb. 18, Johnny Abbott in the third.

Bell, a Negro, was born in Youngstown, graduated from High school there and later from Oglethorpe university. Weighing 147 pounds, he stands 5 feet 7 inches.

EVERYTHING FROM SOUP TO NUTS IN TOW FOR GOLF TEST

Hudson, Promoter of the Portland Open, Has Lot Of New Angles

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 21.—If more innovations can be found to enhance a golf tournament, the promoter of Portland's $15,500 Open would like to hear about them.

Robert A. Hudson, a wholesale grocer and "angel" of this winter-swing and "angel" of this winter-swing, believes he has even outdone Charles S. May, sponsor of that three-ring circus known as the Tam O'Shanter All-America. The tournament, beginning Thursday and lasting through Sunday, has attracted almost every top-flight professional in the land, plus many amateurs and both amateur and professional women stars.

An elaborate scoreboard at the clubhouse, raised covered and floodlighted, will keep the paying clients and the press informed of all action transpiring on the course of the Portland golf club.

Soldiers packing walkie-talkies will follow each three-some as they battle par over the 72-hole route, medal play, flashing the hole-by-hole scores back to the clubhouse for immediate notation on the scoreboard.

Every Angle
Hudson was worried about a possible caddy shortage until he contacted sports writers of school papers at Portland's eight prep institutions. They told him they would line up the bag-toters, and they did—150 of them.

Hudson then tossed a banquet for the embro caddies and Larry Lamberger, Portland golf club pro, gave them a lesson in club-carrying procedure.

But Hudson wasn't through with the caddies. He announced that he would pay their fees out of his own pocket, taking that burden off the players' shoulders.

Hudson's crowning touch, however, was the decision to construct grandstands along the playing route for the benefit of spectators and convalescent soldiers, five for the former and one for the latter.

There May Be Discussion About Mythical Football Title Among High Schools

By HAROLD HARRISON
COLUMBUS, Nov. 21.—Ohio is going to wind up the 1944 High school football season with at least 12 and possibly as many as 14 undefeated and untied teams.

So there will be at least that many teams which think they should be recognized as mythical state champions.

Two of the top claimants—Cleveland Cathedral Latin and Toledo Libbey—still have one more game to play. Cathedral Latin will clash with Cleveland Lincoln in the annual charity game next Saturday and Libbey has a Thanksgiving day date with Toledo Devils.

Outside of those games and a few scattered others most of the boys now are about ready to turn their attention to basketball.

With Cathedral Latin and Libbey in the unbeaten and untied class are Columbus North, Cincinnati, Purcell, Athens, Crooksville, New Philadelphia, St. Clairsville, Greenville, Canton Township, Chaucery, Dover, Granville, Ada and Pandora.

The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie

the time of the German retreat from Normandy, when wishful thinkers were saying the war would be over in three weeks.

The Allied armies on the right bank have been marking up sensations. Gen. Patton's success in flanking and capturing Metz—one of the world's strongest fortresses for over 2,000 years—has been followed by the French capture of Belfort, another stronghold, and a drive clear to the Rhine at Kembs. This has had the effect of flanking the German line and compelling them to rush back towards the Rhine to keep from being cut off.

As remarked in this column yesterday, it's evident that Nazi Field Marshal Von Rundstedt intends to bring to his westward defenses in strategic sectors like Aachen just as long as he can. His game is to fight a delaying action in hopes that foul winter weather will come to his rescue and drag the war on. However, sooner or later he will be compelled to pull clear back behind the Rhine for his last stand before we break into the heart of Germany.

land, whose War Production committee has met with company and union officers, told a press conference today: "I have reliable grounds to believe the strike will be over before the end of the day." He declined to elaborate but said he had been "in constant touch with Washington."

Local service provided by automatic dial systems was not affected.

Spread of the strike to Michigan was regarded as a possibility. Mrs. Frances Smith, president of the Michigan Telephone Employees federation, said a proposal to support the Ohio walkouts would be submitted to a meeting of members tonight. She said members of the Michigan group requested active support of the Ohio strikers.

The strike started Friday in Dayton where unionists protested payment of a weekly $18.25 bonus to cover certain living expenses of operators imported into that city by Ohio Bell.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.
